
Test of a Guardia's Anti-Power Bills

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Following is the text of the three bills introduced today by Congressman La Guardia to check Power Trust purchase of newspapers:

1.—The Act of March 3, 1879, (Chapter 139, Section 11, 20 Stat. 559, being Section 35 of Title 18 of the Code of the United States, and all acts amendatory thereof, is hereby amended by adding the following paragraph:

"Any publication which is owned or controlled by a corporation or association, or by a utility, power or electric plant, electric light or gas plant, chain store, railroad or transportation company, shall constitute ownership or interests in such publication on the title page and in the copy as large and conspicuous as the name of the publication, and shall at the foot of each page bear the name of the owner, ownership or interest in the type and form determined by the President-General."

WOULD USE LABELS.

2.—The Act of August 24, 1913, (Chapter 103, Section 5, 37 Stat. 604, being Section 35 of Title 18 of the Code of the United States, and all acts amendatory thereof, is hereby amended by adding the following paragraph:

"Whenever a publication is owned or being sold by a corporation or association, it shall be labeled as follows:

"This publication is owned or controlled by the _____, a corporation or association, and is published for the _____, a corporation or association."

Senator Foster King of Connecticut, another member of the power and light committee, was not being too friendly to the measure. When the bill reached its report, he reserved his rights.

Friends of the people's lighting bill, realizing the strength of the House are working to overcome this powerful opposition.

The bill, known as the Electric Light and Power bill, was introduced by the House and the public are entitled to know what its provisions contain. The only thing that has caused it to go through the House without any opposition is the fact that the bill was introduced by a member of the House who is known to be a friend of the people.

Rep. Shattuck went into an explanation of the bill by pointing out that the original measure from the committee on power and light had been introduced by the House and the public are entitled to know what its provisions contain.

Bauer Would Borrow To Erect High School
The petition of Mayor Bauer of Lynn for authority to borrow $200,000 to build a high school was heard by the legislative committee on municipal finance. Principal Ernest Stevens pointed out that the sum was less than that authorized by the general court last year and that it was necessary because a large sum had been planned.

Plug of Tobacco Causes $3000 Suit
Fall River, May 7.—Thomas Berry of this city filed a suit for $3000 in Second Bristol District Court against Harry Packer, a local merchant, claiming that he suffered injury while sitting in a plug of tobacco Nov. 19, 1928. The plaintiff claims that the plug contained a metallic substance and that he suffered injury.

Old Soak Chews Ship Captain's Buttons
San Francisco, May 7.—Old Soak probably will make headlines in Washington. A message from the steamship President Wilson says that Secretary Bittman's servant, now en route from Manila, has chewed three buttons off the captain's coat. "I am sure the man who instituted the kind to which 'work' never met Old Soak," the message adds.

Seeks Divorce

Mrs. Ida E. Conway of Waltham, who asks a divorce from John J. Conway, told the court that her husband had contributed only $20 in four years to support her and two children.

THREE ALLEGED ROBBERS HELD

Three South End residents, alleged to have lured Timothy F. Maloney of Doris St., Dorchester, into their home Sunday on a pretense of liquor, afterwards robbing him of $18, were held in $5000 each until May 8 on a robbery charge when they appeared before Judge Zottoli in the Municipal Court yesterday. Maloney was held in $5000 as a material witness.

The defendants, Mrs. Mary Walsh, Miss Mary M. Smith and John Walsh of 41 Middlesex St., South End, were arrested early Sunday morning by Sgt. John J. Dunne of Division 5 after Maloney approached him on the street and asked aid in recovering his money.

Hens turned the bills over to the police who arrested the boy and girl and also twelve men at an alleged soviet headquarters.

Injured in Crash
Baltimore, Md., May 7.—William E. Kelly, 30-year-old, Mass., a guest in the Emerson Hotel, driving a rented automobile on the Belair road, crashed into a "blinker" light. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in a semi-conscious condition, where it was reported that he was in serious condition with a fractured skull.

Appetites Lag in the Springtime
You must be a bit patient with the family if nothing tastes good! But now, it means that a new diet is in order—and your cooking problems are simplified. See how "ice-box dishes"—more salads, cold meats and chilled desserts. Then switch the family over to iced soups. Ice is the most economical item on your food budget. A few cents' worth of ice protects dollars' worth of food and makes it more appetizing. Cracked ice on the butter and under the celery and olives gives the whole table a festive, holiday appearance.

MICHAELSON TO ASK RUM CASE BE QUASHED

Key West, Fla., May 7 (AP).—Congressman M. A. Michaelson of Illinois, who will enter a plea of not guilty in federal court to an indictment on charges of unlawful importation, transportation, and possession of intoxicating liquor, will present a motion to quash the indictment and a demurrer to the indictment.

HUB SCHOONER ON THE ROCKS

Parramore, N. B., May 7.—Pearls were felt today for the schooner Stewart T. Salter, in ballast from Boston to this port, which was racing between two ledges at Cape C. R. her bow submerged and her stern almost level with the water. The vessel was driven ashore during a storm. Attempts were to be made today to float her. She was in charge of Capt. Charles W. Salter, one of her owners, and was returning here for permanent repairs after being stripped of her hull and part of her deck in the recent gale that swept the Atlantic coast.

BOY AND GIRL HELD AS PEDS

Bethlehem, Pa., May 7 (AP).—Fourteen persons were in jail here today each in default of $5000 bail, charged with sedition. Among them were Michael Bulak, 14-year-old high school boy, and his sister, Anna, a 13-year-old silk mill worker.

The boy and girl were arrested after Lloyd F. Hess, principal of the South side high school, had confiscated alleged seditious handbills distributed among the students.

Seek Information on State Police
The rules committee of the State Senate held a hearing in executive session on the order of Senator Tarbell of East Brookfield, requesting the commissioner of public safety to submit the names of all members of the state police patrol who are engaged in duties other than those prescribed for members of the patrol.

Montpelier, Vt., May 7 (AP).—Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, looked forward to freedom today after confinement of more than a year in the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

Miller Is Ready to Leave U. S. Prison Today
Atlanta, Ga., May 7 (AP).—Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, looked forward to freedom today after confinement of more than a year in the Atlanta federal penitentiary.

He was sentenced to 18 months and fined $500 after conviction in New York in 1927 of conspiracy to defraud the government in handling German property during the World War.

Miller became eligible for parole last October, but Attorney General, Sargent would not approve the parole board's recommendation. Later, however, the Attorney General set the date May 7, 1929.

QUEEN ANNE IN OUR DAY

Old Queen Anne
Walnut Lowboy
Date 1720

THE dignified restraint of Queen Anne furniture made of walnut represents a style which is the antithesis (and a desirable one) of the restless designs of our time. It brings into our homes an element of quiet beauty with which we need to be surrounded.

In my new galleries are many fine examples of Queen Anne walnut furniture suitable for incorporation into American homes.

I guarantee these to be authentic, that is, of the period which they purport to represent, and they are priced at a figure below that which other dealers would have to charge. This is because my connections in England enable me to purchase there on an equal footing with the English dealers; hence I am able to save one profit for my customers.

LOUIS JOSEPH

Boston, Mass.

Antiques with a written guarantee.

Antiques priced
most moderately.

An invitation is extended to all who can do so to visit my new galleries and enjoy the fine collections of furniture of various periods, the china, the glass, the silver, the prints, and other objects of art there displayed.

Boston Antique Dealer
Has Unique History

Louis Joseph, dealer in antiques at 14 Newbury street, on February 4 of this year opened his own building, built especially for him and designed to display a stock of antiques in the best possible manner. This was just four years after he had started in business for himself.

Mr. Joseph has had a remarkably successful career as a dealer. He came to this country in 1918 selling antiques at wholesale in New York as a representative of his father, a dealer of London.

Two years later he came to Boston to take charge of the antique department of Shreve, Crump and Low, and remained there until February of 1925, when he opened his own establishment at 381 Boylston street.

Four years later his business had grown to such an extent that he had built for him on Newbury street one of the handsomest buildings in town. Since then his already large business has taken a spurt which assures him a position as one of the most extensive dealers in English antiques at retail in the country.

A business to grow as this one has must be based on two chief factors—quality of the stock and confidence of the buying public.

The quality of Mr. Joseph's stock is assured by his connections in England, which are such that he is enabled to buy there on the same footing as the English dealers, and doing his own exporting, he is able to sell in this country at, at least one less profit than his competitors are obliged to charge.

Mr. Joseph comes of a long line of dealers in antiques. Since 1724 there has been one of that name in the same business in England. The present representative of the line learned his trade there, shoring all branches of it, from cabinet making up to the selling end.

In this country he found that the knowledge he had gained stood him in good stead while he served his apprenticeship in New York, but hardest of all markets because of the competition there. He found also that by descent he had acquired from his forebears an instinct which was to be relied on. These two factors have helped him in the selection of as fine a stock as will be found in America.

The second element of success, confidence of the buying public, has been acquired by a policy of honesty in dealing. Mr. Joseph was the first dealer in this country to advertise a written guarantee with each article sold. This guarantee covers an honest description of the piece, stating that it is of the period purported, and noting any restorations that may have been made. The guarantee is backed with all the resources of a large business.

Naturally his departure from established custom brought hostility from certain dealers, but others promptly fell into line and adopted the same procedure. Now it is commonly done among dealers of the better class.

On the other hand, it established a feeling of confidence among his customers, and this has been the means of building up a business of large proportions among a class of purchasers who appreciate and demand the best.

Mr. Joseph has also been a liberal advertiser, another instance of his eager adoption of the changed methods of doing business. In his galleries it is a settled policy of the house to treat all visitors with equal courtesy, no matter whether they come to buy or merely to look.

In these advanced methods of doing business Mr. Joseph believes that his success has lain.

TARIFF STEALS ONE SKIN, TWO FARM BILL'S LIMELIGHT

Washington, May 7 (AP)—Congress today approached the end of the special session—and the beginning of another.

Since a vote on the export duty bill was still at least a day away, interest on Capitol Hill for the session on the other big issue, as embodied in the tariff revision bill, made ready after four months of labor for introduction today in the House.

In recognition of the paramount duties, no committee meetings were called for today, and arrangements were made for senators and representatives to obtain copies of the new tariff bill.

Although cheered by interest in the tariff bill, the closely drawn contest in the Senate over the measure, which President Hoover opposed, was by no means reduced in intensity. Administration leaders working for elimination of the protective section from the general farm relief bill and of the group favoring its retention redoubled efforts to hold adherents in line, gain recruits and secure a maximum attendance when the roll is called tomorrow or Thursday.

Kovno, Lithuania, May 7 (AP)—One person was dead and two were under treatment today for serious wounds as a consequence of an assassination attempt against Premier Augustinas Voldemaras.

Neither the premier nor his wife was injured. The assailant escaped in the confusion.

The attack was made as the party entered the garden of a theater where they were to attend a concert. Three bullets from the assailant's gun struck Lieut. Gudimov, an aide of the premier, and he died instantly. Another bullet passed through the right lung of Capt. Verbitsky, another aide, while a fifth inflicted a serious wound on a grand-nephew of the premier.

A number of arrests have been made in the plot.

No "Whispering Campaign"

can withstand the light of this truth: Lucky Strikes are made from the finest of fine tobaccos—the cream of the crop. Lucky Strikes alone are toasted because toasting is a secret process. 20,679 physicians definitely state that toasting removes impurities. Then, too, it adds to the flavor and prevents throat irritation. Therefore, without fear of contradiction, we can say truthfully:

"No cigarette, regardless of price, is as good as Luckies whether manufactured by The American Tobacco Company or by any other company."

PILGRIMS FROM NEW ENGLAND OFF FOR HOME

By ELIAS McQUAD
Boston Evening American Correspondent

Abigail G. S. President Wilson, in Mediterranean Sea, May 7—Homebound, the more than 200 Boston and New England pilgrims were enjoying today the rare climate as the pilgrim ship plowed through blue seas towards Palermo, the first stop of the journey which started early this morning from Naples. The President Wilson is due in Boston about May 25.

A tumultuous reception was given the pilgrims by the Neapolitans before the ship sailed. Members of the clergy were at the dock and joined with the people in wishing a pleasant voyage for the visitors.

TWO LOVELY PRISONERS
Nearly all the 250 members of the party are making the return trip with Cardinal O'Connell, although several parties are to take a two-week tour of the Continent, Egypt and the Holy Land.

Among the interesting passengers aboard are two lovely prisoners each, as one might say a "victim." One of them, confined in the purser's office, gets a bit of daylight occasionally. The other is in the scullery. Canaries from Algeria, they are, and if there is excitement in their lives because of disappointment, or despair, their world shall never know it. They would shame the famous families, the Grouches and the Bourbons.

NEWS FROM HOME
Speaking of merry folk, one of the merriest aboard is Rev. J. H. Hannon, parish priest at St. Joseph's. Fr. Hannon, a man of more than 60 years, with the heart of a boy, knew every passenger by name, and all about them.

By our literary one-page newspaper "Il Corriere Oceanico" we know that Boston was still the heart of a boy, knew every passenger by name, and all about them.

Find No Great Wide Spaces in New York
New York, May 7 (AP)—Corporation of the Board of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and Mrs. Tild, who was Mary Rider of Lancaster, Pa., are visiting here, but are anxious to get back to his station in the Rose river country, 400 miles from the nearest settlement. They can't get accustomed to the noises of the city.

Newton Plans for Soldiers' Memorial
The dedication of a soldiers' memorial will mark Newton's observance of the city's tercentenary in 1930, according to plans now being formulated by a committee of three members of the board of aldermen. The memorial is to be constructed on a part of the site at Homer st., Walnut st. and Commonwealth ave., Newton Center.

Girl, 9, Thrilled on Her First Flight Over Hub

"O-o-o-o! What a thrill!"

In just those words Catherine Jones, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Jones, of Dorchester ave., Dorchester, described her first airplane trip to her admiring chums, today—a trip which fulfilled a desire of months' standing. It was at Boston Airport that Catherine had her first trip skyward and she'll never forget it.

Catherine is a-armed. She has wanted to fly ever since her daddy told her all about Lindbergh. She has coaxed almost every day to be taken to the airport and given a ride—"like Lindbergh."

At last her parents decided to fulfill her wish. First-Step Wyle of the Bay State Flying Service took her on her maiden trip. They soared over Dorchester—where she tried to pick out her home—the Back Bay and down Quincy way.

"It was just too wonderful," she told her friends. "The Louie looked just like doll houses and the trees were so small, I could hardly see any people."

BALKS AT 'RIDE'; IS SHOT DEAD

Detroit, May 7 (AP)—Because he resisted an attempt to "take him for a ride," William W. Gunn, 21, music store owner, was shot dead at the door of his home. His wife, Carrie, narrowly escaped a like fate.

Gunn was summoned to the door by two men. As he appeared both men drew weapons and ordered Gunn to accompany them. Gunn seized the nearest man, but the other opened fire. As Gunn fell dead the men fled.

CLEAR BANDIT OF MURDER

Buffalo, N. Y., May 7 (UNB)—Edward Larkman, alleged bandit, who was saved from the electric chair by former Governor Alfred E. Smith 10 minutes before the time set for his execution, was absolved today of any participation in the murder of Ward J. Pierce, for whom his crime he was sentenced to death.

Anthony Kalkiewicz, member of the "Big Korney" gang, told police that six men, himself, four local gangsters and a Chicago man, whose identity was not divulged, took part in the holding of the art works metal shop here, in which a paymaster, was killed.

37 Auto Accidents

Concord, N. H., May 7—Thirty-seven automobile accidents were reported to the State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles for last week. They included one death, that of a child, at Nashua. 7

Body Found in Harbor

The body of Thomas Casey, 55, of 593 E. Second st., South Boston, for which divers have been searching the past two days, was found about 400 feet from the Everett, hauling traffic for 25 minutes.

Everett Bus Disabled

A bus of the Service Bus Line, Revere to Everett, was put out of commission by locked gears on the outbound street car tracks of Broadway hill, near Fifth st., Everett, halting traffic for 25 minutes.

THIS morning at least two million women left their homes for the shopping center of their community. Arriving there they deliberately singled out the A & P store as the preferred place to buy their food needs. Why? Many have told us that this is the answer... Because A & P stores sell only foods of known merit and genuine goodness... and because the low prices at which A & P sells are rarely equalled elsewhere.

NEWSBOYS HAVE CHANCE TO WIN BRAVES PASS

Newsboys who appreciate their mothers and know how to tell of their appreciation in writing stand a chance—ones of them—of winning a Sunday season pass to the National League games at Braves Field this year.

The newsboy who writes the best essay on "Do I Appreciate My Mother," will receive the pass as prize, and the newsboy who writes the second best will receive a set of Shakespeare's works.

Essays are limited to 200 words and the newsboys must deliver them, either by mail or in person or messenger to the Harry E. Burroughs Foundation not later than 8 p. m. Saturday.

Winners will be announced Sunday during the lunch to be served at the Foundation to the 600 out of town newsboys who on Sunday, Mother's Day, will be guests of the Braves management at the Cincinnati game.

STRIKERS WAIT FOR INVITATION

Newmarket, N. H., May 7. Local textile strike leaders will await an invitation from Governor Tobey before they will continue their case before the State's chief executive.

The strike has entered upon its 10th week. The strikers' committee deliberated over the second proposal for settlement on the dispute made by the State labor committee.

John R. B. Davis, chief of the committee, is understood, recommends now that the strikers submit their differences with the management to the board of arbitration for settlement.

That the strikers will not seek a comfort with Governor Tobey was announced by Organizer Horace A. Liver, who is in charge of the strikers' activities here.

He made it plain that should the Governor extend an invitation for a conference members of the committee and Riverston stood ready to go to Concord and present their side of the controversy.

Take Up Couzens Bill on Communications

Washington, May 7 (AP)—Hearings will be begun tomorrow by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee on the bill of Chairman Couzens for the establishment of a federal communications commission.

I. G. Caldwell, former general counsel for the Radio Commission, will be the first called by the committee in the hearings, which are expected to go extensively into radio, telephone and telegraph communication.

Body of Missing Youth Is Found

Bridgeport, May 7.—The body of Philip J. Hill, 15, of 43 Wall st., who had been missing since April 29, was found at night in the Town river this afternoon by Tony Filiberti, a fisherman of the Stanley Works, as he made his rounds. The body was caught on a water pipe.

The boy's mother was dead and when he disappeared on April 15 it was the third time within a few months that he had run away.

N. Y. Millionaires to Live Near Wall St.

New York, May 7 (AP)—There is to be a $20,000,000 residential city of skyscraper homes in the Wall Street district. A syndicate is to erect apartments facing the Hudson. The idea is to enable men of affairs to live a stone throw from business instead of traveling miles through congestion.

If Hair Is Bobbed Whiskers Begin to Show Up

Berlin, May 7 (INS)—Dr. Hoo Blum, writing in a Russian weekly periodical, says that after investigating 40 women, he finds that the bobbing of hair causes an undesired growth of hair upon the chin and upper lip.

QUIZ NEW GIRL IN 'TORCH' CASE

White Plains, May 7 (INS)—With a subpoena, returnable to May, issued for Miss Bertha Karpis, close friend of the slain Dorothy Peacock, police today continued efforts to forge a chain of evidence tending to show premeditation on the part of Earl Peacock, "torch" slayer.

Miss Karpis proved recalcitrant when Capt. Michael Silverstein of Mt. Vernon police sought to question her, and District Attorney Frank Conyn promptly issued the subpoena.

Sydney A. Syme, counsel for Peacock, in disclosing possibility of an insanity defense, charged police with "herking" Peacock to obtain his confession.

CHARITY BALL ATTENDED BY 400 COUPLE

Four hundred couples thronged the ballroom of the Copley-Place for the annual charity ball under the auspices of Boston Council Knights of Columbus.

The success of the event makes it possible for the council to continue and to broaden its philanthropic work among the poorer children of Boston.

The proceeds will be devoted to the defrayment of expenses incurred in the summer outings conducted yearly.

Thousands of children from the various Catholic institutions in Boston will thus be enabled to enjoy the benefits of fresh air and healthful exercise at local resorts.

Prominent among the guests were state officers of the Knights of Columbus, including Vice President John E. Swift and State Secretary Joseph M. Kirby. Also present were Mrs. Harold J. Pyle, Mrs. Joseph P. Dever, Mrs. Edward J. Pyle, Mrs. Michael McCarthy, Mrs. A. L. Dittan, Mrs. Gerald M. Sullivan, Mrs. Everett S. Brown, Margaret P. Downey, Vera Ewing, Barbara Dunn, Miss Mary E. Egan, Elizabeth Mooney, Vivian Bond, Florence Parlow, Kathleen Curren, Anna Cotter, Margaret Corneil, Catherine A. Conlon, Blanka Walsh, Margaret Brown, Ruth Clark, Mary Collins, Margaret M. Walsh and Frances Nolan.

Harold J. Field, chairman of Boston Council and District Deputy Edward A. Huxley were in charge of arrangements. Assisting them were the grand knights from all the local councils in Greater Boston. These included J. Edward Keefe, Jr., Fred R. Walsh, John J. Gill, John J. Murray, John J. McQuay, William H. Cox, Arthur T. Carran, William P. McDonough, Francis D. Brennan, John J. KIDNAP THREAT SENT BANKER

Tuscaloosa, Ala., May 7 (AP)—A dictation of a note threatening R. H. Cochran, bank president and former president of the Alabama Bankers' Association, with death and kidnapping of his children if he did not deposit $500 in a tree stump formed the basis of efforts by police today to learn the identity of its author.

Police intimated that a college student may have sent the note by the fact that its spelling, wording and punctuation were perfect.

Harold J. Field, chairman of Boston Council and District Deputy Edward A. Huxley were in charge of arrangements.

STENOGRAPHER IS BANISHED FLEE TEAR GAS IN CAPITOL

An attempt to obtain a stenographic report of the executive session of the conference of the school committees with 20 representatives of union book-binders and employers was frustrated when the stenographer was ousted from the committee room by a unanimous vote of the committee.

The members charged the stenographer had been sent by Chairman John C. LeDowing of the finance commission at the request of the book-binders.

Members of the committee were reluctant to discuss the affair or what actually happened behind the closed doors during the long proceedings which delayed the public meeting of the body for exactly 90 minutes.

Think Schoolboy Has Turned Sailor

Knowledge that he was not to be promoted because of failure in his studies, is thought to have caused Joseph D'Arigo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis D'Arigo, 31 Taylor st., South Braintree, to run away from home. He is believed to have shipped on a tank steamer.

Officer Retires After 33 Years' Service

Sergeant Charles Carlson, a member of the police department for more than 33 years and for a number of years attached to the harbor police, was retired at 65, according to a general order issued by Police Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson. The officer has reached the retirement age of 65.

Turner 'Death Axe' Shows No Blood

Lawton, Me., May 7—No trace of blood was found on a discolored axe head which was located near the charred body of Ellis Turner, 75-year-old farmer. Mrs. Anne Merrill Walsh, 26, Turner's former housekeeper, is being held without bail in the county jail at South Paris on a charge of murdering the aged farmer.

WRIGHT of the AIR by WINIFRED VAN DUZER

Thrilling 6-Day Novel by Noted Author WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

Chatta Mason, snow girl, and her friends, Vee and Ginger, meet William Carl Alban at the race. Alban takes the girls on a party. He learns Chatta is the daughter of Jack Mason, a famous figure in racing circles, now dead. Chatta confides her ambition to become a star. Alban offers to educate Chatta. Chatta feels she may repay the debt she feels she owes her father. Chatta accepts and Alban places his seaside home at the disposal of Chatta and her mother. They prepare to move and Alban sends his car to drive them to their new home.

(Now Go On With the Story)

CHAPTER 3

"I WAS called 'Sea Sound Cottage.'"

The low stone building with wide verandas held a vast number of rooms.

Mrs. Blile, an astonishingly round old lady—round face, round eyes, half-circle brows—was the housekeeper.

Alban motored down from the city on Sunday.

During her week in the country Chatta almost lost track of time. Alban held her hands, bending down to her with his swift, delighted smile.

"Beautiful! I told you the country air is an artist. And how's M'ma?" he demanded, crossing to the slight figure half lost in a great, old-fashioned grandfather chair.

"You've been very kind to us Carl."

But he wouldn't have it that way; all the favor was on their part.

Chatta wanted a very great deal from him. But she had told Carl already; a chance to climb the heights; the sight of her name in light over Broadway; the vision of herself bowing before the curtain while a throng applauded.

Success—oh, she wanted this; would give up anything for this! He gave her a long, amused smile, his glance fixed on the eager, dark eyes so full of light, the young lips full with a look of dreaming, the white, fluttering hands.

"You are 19, Chatta. That's Springtime; you wish to shut yourself away from it?"

Alban took her to the club house restaurant. People kept calling greetings to him, beautiful women maneuvered to catch his attention, nodding and smiling with barely concealed interest, flashing approving glances at Chatta, cooing among themselves afterward.

Alban had given her a letter to Daniel Fennelly, the famous producer.

She arrived at the Fennelly Theater a half hour ahead of time. She told Fennelly something of what she wanted; what her experience had been; why she felt she must work for achievement.

It was nearly an hour later that she stepped into the street and began, in a dazed way, to wriggle toward Broadway's noon-day crowd toward Ginger's boarding house.

Alban, who had said she must have vocal lessons if she wished to be a star, had taken her to a vocal teacher, a French, too, who would teach her to sing and give her poise. Italian, too, in an attempt to make her all her life if she intended to hold herself on as she had not fit to do so far and would be to go back. And, of course, she must have a coachman to drive her. But she already knew this, she had said to Fennelly, "I'll do it!" But of course, otherwise Mr. Alban would not have sent her. He knew, vastly, the teacher, the coachman, the French and German, but mostly German, Fennelly in Berlin and Vienna and Paris.

THE QUESTION

Do you think there should be more rigid inspection of public bridges to insure safety of persons in view of the great destruction caused in the second floods of the country?

MRS. JOSEPH BARNICLE, 131 Lexington st.—When so many lives are at stake every day during the season when rivers overflow their bounds, every precaution should be taken to insure that bridges are kept strong enough to withstand the crushing waters. It is possible that inspection of bridges take too much time, and extra pains should be given to the work in strengthening the structures doubly against accidents such as have happened in New Hampshire.

MISS ELVA T. MORGAN, 71 Fletcher ter.—There is no doubt in my mind that we should have more rigid inspection of bridges in this state. If one of the bridges which were swept away in the recent floods in different sections of the country had been of more solid construction, there is a chance, anyway, that property belonging to the bridge would not have been destroyed. Too much inspection in such cases, I say, could not be enough, especially when one considers that lives of many people may be jeopardized through lack of proper inspection.

JAMES H. MOUNCH, 1 Lead st.—The greater the inspection, the greater the safety against flood disasters. Bridges can not be safe enough, and too much. Many terrible accidents could be prevented both on railroads and on the land and towns along river banks. If state and town officials insisted on adequate bridge and travel when needed, some of the older bridges, still in use, were never constructed to hold back the waters of swollen streams which, in these days, are now over large populated districts.

K. S. CARLSTROM, 33 Esplanade st.—There should be extra inspections made by the state so that frequent inspections of bridges should be made by competent engineers. The matter is one of vital importance to people living in towns and cities where floods happen. The state should be entitled to protection from such accidents, and I think more rigid inspection of bridges and big dams would prevent heavy losses both to property and to the lives of our citizens.

MILKMAN AND HORSE HIT BY TROLLEY

Doctors in Fight to Save Actor's Sight

BURNED IN TAXI BILL GUN BLASTS FOUGHT ON STAGE BY LOBBY

Specialists at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary are battling today to save the sight of an actor whose face was showered with flash and powder grains as he stepped too close to the villain's gun. Robert Linden, 20, the hero in the play, was the victim and the accident occurred in the final scene of the Somerville stock company's show in Somerville Theater.

Linden braved the duty of the villain, portrayed by Jack Kingston, 20, and as the latter brandished a revolver, walked step by step closer to him. The villain fired, the report echoing in the auditorium. The cartridge was a blank, but Linden had walked so close that the flash and powder grains showed on his face.

The actor crouched in a chair, covering his blood-stained face with his hands and the curtain dropped. The theater manager hurried Linden to the infirmary, where doctors at once began work on his face. If possible, his sight. They were unable to determine if they would be successful.

Somerville police are investigating the accident.

Manchester, N. H., May 7.—Rev. Joseph A. Chevalier, more than 50 years pastor of St. Augustine Church, in this city, which parish he organized, left an estate valued at $92,181.23, according to the inventory filed with the register of probate. Of this amount $80,331.23 is in cash with $10,850 in real estate.

The priest's will was a brief one, leaving everything to Rev. Alphonse J. Leclerc, pastor of St. Marie's Church, and to Rev. Louis T. Leclerc, pastor of Sacred Heart Church. He died in February.

VINDICATED BY DIVORCE

George M. Barr of Boston, who attempted to kill himself free in the Middlesex Superior Criminal Court at Faneuil Hall on April 22 after the court had revoked a sentence of a year in the house of correction, will have to serve a jail sentence after he had cashed it.

Barr pleaded guilty when first assigned to the laundry of $78.80 from the Medford Savings Bank through the agency of a bad check he cashed. Just after he had been sentenced by Judge Fodick he said he was a teacher of accounting, that the check had been given him by one of his pupils, and that he didn't know the check was bad until after he had cashed it.

He asked that the sentence be revoked. This was done. In court a report was made that the story told by Barr could not be substantiated, so he was given a sentence of 10 months, consideration being given the fact that he has already served about two months to jail.

WEEK PRICE MILKMAN IN HUB TO BE HIGH IN CRASH

Bostonians will continue to pay the winter price for their milk as a result of a meeting of milk producers at Montpelier, Vt.

Detailed tentative plans for a proposed program of milk stabilization were discussed. Those present were Edward O. Jones, commissioner of agriculture; W. P. Davis, general manager of the New England Milk Producers Association; George Phelps, chairman of the sales committee of the association; Dr. E. H. Bancroft of Barr, who is connected with a cooperative creamery; and officials of the department of agriculture.

SAYS BIG WAVE SANK VESTRIS

London, May 7 (AP)—The story of the liner Vestris' battle with heavy seas and the shock of a big wave from which the ship was recovered was told today to the Board of Trade inquiry court by Third Officer Herbert G. Welland.

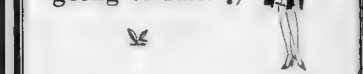

The ship was taking seas over her fore deck and had a list at noon Sunday, and because of the wind pressure failed to keep her course, he said, adding that there was nothing wrong with the steering gear.

Welland said he was trying to get a boat out when the Vestris gave a list lurch and he was thrown into the water. He wore a lifeboat and being a fairly good swimmer managed to hang on to a floating locker until picked up about an hour later.

Mrs. Rae Velmore Bliss of Newton and Watertown won vindication when Judge Harris in Middlesex Probate Court granted her a decree of divorce from Dr. Emery C. Bliss, Boston chiropodist. Hubby had, in a previous suit, charged his wife with excessive use of drugs. Mrs. Bliss cited many acts of cruel and abusive treatment and said that once, when her husband was treating her broken leg he dropped it and ran out to save their cat from a dog that was chasing it.

New York, May 7 (AP)—Sundry suits are being made for Col. Lindbergh's taste is inclined toward conservative material and style, said a 5th ave. tailor. Anna M. Weiss said she is "Charlie" to all the family and not "Auntie."

AMERICAN NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

STOCKS SOLD

NOT A GOOD DAY FOR THE STOCK MARKET

The failure of many automobile and parts manufacturers to equal their 1928 first quarter earnings is not a condition universal in the industry, according to H. H. Crain, president of Crain's Automotive Service Inc., industry authority.

But it will be noticeable in several cases where earnings reported last week were lower than those reported in 1928 have been the case for the first three months of the current year with reported income and profits which in divided and comparative standpoint are highly satisfactory.

Actually, it is felt that this situation has little significance. It takes more than three months to make a year, and many developments can and probably will arise to change the entire picture before the current year is ended.

There is no assurance that the more successful 1928 companies will in all cases double their 1929 earnings under the conditions of the previous year, nor is there any positive proof that the manufacturers that have started the year off with good earnings will be able to maintain the volume of business on an equivalent basis for the remaining nine months, much as such a condition would be desirable.

Naturally the question arises as to why certain companies whose operations were highly profitable last year should report a smaller profit this year in spite of a larger gross volume of business.

Undoubtedly, the cause may be attributed to increased operating expenses, such as higher wages, increasing cost of raw materials, and increased cost of advertising.

Only in a few and widely scattered cases have the companies reported to a point where the reduction will offset the increase.

Business Shows No Let-Up; But Dear Money Disliked

By E. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, May 7.—Prosperous business conditions and a moderate but not indiscreet monetary policy are maintaining the growing number of investors who are confident that the market cannot be maintained.

Even the stock market exhibited from courage last week despite a very stiff charge for loans.

The writer has been visiting in an eastern industrial city, where the industry is doing well, but the general business is not so good. The industry is doing well, but the general business is not so good. The industry is doing well, but the general business is not so good.

The quarterly reports now being made are not so good as the previous year. It is the fact that the exception for corporations that have started the year off with good earnings will be able to maintain the volume of business on an equivalent basis for the remaining nine months, much as such a condition would be desirable.

Many Dainty Recipes

THE latest news and sketches of fashions appear each day on the magazine page of the Boston Evening American. Also Martha Lee's help on cooking and the menu. Recipes of the most approved chefs are among the many features appearing here, and should be read by every woman.

Hurry-Up Dinner

AMONG the menus which every good housekeeper keeps in her recipe file or in some other handy place should be one for a dinner which may be prepared quickly. This doesn't mean an emergency dinner as you prepare when the bell rings to the door, but a dinner which can be made in a hurry when you have to eat a "hurry-up" dinner. Rather, it refers to the time when you go to a party and you will be home until late, or when you want to eat a "hurry-up" dinner before the guests arrive. This quick menu presupposes that you will have some of the necessary foods in the morning, and perhaps prepare such as the consommé in the evening. You must also start preparation of your dinner.

Chilled Consommé
Pineapple Meat (see recipe)
Tomatoes Stuffed With Spinach
Apricot Heurte
Pineapple Charlotte

CHILLED CONNOMME
Soak 3 lbs. gelatin in 3 cups cold water about 5 minutes. Bring contents of 2 cans of consommé to boiling, add softened gelatin and cool. Serve very cold in cups garnished, if desired, with a spoonful of whipped cream on each cup sprinkled with parsley. The consommé should be slightly thickened, but not stiff.

PINEAPPLE MEAT CAKES
Add 1 slightly beaten egg to 1 lb. of ground round steak and mix well. Add 1½ cups milk and 1½ cups pineapple, crushed pineapple and ½ c. crumbs. Form into 12 cakes and pan broil in a hot oven.

TOMATOES STUFFED WITH SPINACH
Drain sufficient spinach and add lemon juice and salt and pepper to taste. Have small ripe tomatoes peeled and scooped out into cups and well chilled. Mix the spinach with salt and then stuff with the spinach. Chill again until ready to serve. Serve as a vegetable or with mayonnaise on lettuce as a salad.

APRICOT BISCUITS
Mix 1 c. flour, 6 cups baking powder and 1 egg, salt. Put in 3 cups of shortening. Beat in 2 cups of apricot pulp made by draining and crushing dried apricots through a sieve until 1 c. of pulp is obtained. Add ½ c. apricot syrup and combine mixture with the dry ingredients and by rubbing the apricot pulp in the morning the biscuits may be made very quickly.

PINEAPPLE CHARLOTTE
Remove crusts from 8 slices of bread and spread with butter. Heat 3 c. of crushed pineapple and ½ c. sugar to boiling. Put layers of the buttered bread and the pineapple in a rather deep dish and press down well. Let stand several hours in the oven, then turn out in a mold and serve cut in slices. Garnish with whipped cream and maraschino cherries.

Faithfully yours,
Martha Lee

Correct Manners

By MRS. BECKMAN
DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:
Will you please let me know whether it is right or wrong for a wife to use her husband's surname? My daughter insists it is most improper, saying that we who do it, are really giving ourselves titles which do not belong to us. My daughter-in-law says I should use my husband's surname, whether he be dead or alive. My version is that it is proper to use it while he is alive, and to drop it when he dies. Who is right?

MRS. J. F. M.
DO you really mean the word "surname"? The surname is the last name; the first name being called the "Christian name." And it is correct for a wife to use her husband's name, whether he be dead or alive. My version is that it is proper to use it while he is alive, and to drop it when he dies. Who is right?

For a widow to use the same form that she used when her husband was alive.

Your letter to me should have been signed for the Editor. Very sincerely yours,
(Mrs. John Hyland)

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:
1. When I am introduced to a woman older than myself, I should use "Mrs. So-and-so." When she leaves, should I use "Mrs. So-and-so" again?
2. Is it all right for me to take my father's or my brother's arm when I am on the street?
3. If the woman is much older, and if you wish to show her special honor and respect, it is correct for you to do so.
4. Do you need to? If you don't, it is better form not to do so. You use the arm of a man, as you would the arm of a woman. The woman whom you consider well-bred and observe that they walk independently of their male companions.

INTERESTED.
The way you "use" in this case are the styles who pick and choose from all Paris has to offer. You should have some waist-dresses. Well, I have an off-the-shoulder one. It is a beauty. It is just about perfect. It is made of a fine material, has each side at underarm seams, both front and back, which you can slip through bound opening and into the body. It is a beautiful slip dress for the evening. The white silk is overlaid in red with a fine, delicate pattern of soft white silk crepe, in matching red. Visions of Age and Youth

WHAT would life be without our dreams and visions? They are the things that keep us going from day to day, for ever before us stretches the promise of "Tomorrow" and what it may bring forth. And it inspires to bigger and finer effort and gives an incentive to everything which we attempt. That is, for Youth. But for Old Age—the vision and dreams are not of Tomorrow, but of Yesterday. With age comes experience, and it is so hard sometimes not to impose the dreams of Age on the visions of Youth.

But Youth must find out for itself that some day it, too, may look back on Yesterday and go back over the years which have been so full and so happy. Not always is it so, though, for sometimes in the dreams of Tomorrow the things of Today are missed and pushed to one side in the striving for the bigger and better. And this, too, is a mistake.

Never set aside the things of Today waiting for what may happen Tomorrow. Tomorrow is a long way off, so the wisest thing is to take what the day brings and find your happiness therein. Youth ever laughs at the warnings of Age, but don't do this. For Age in its experience and wisdom can teach us much, if we will but stop long enough in our heedless quest of Tomorrow to listen.

Dreams and visions! The dearest possessions of all, for without them we would be as nothing. For the visions of Tomorrow long as the dreams of Yesterday eventually, and on yourself alone depends whether they shall be dear dreams or nightmares.

Auction and Contract Bidding: South passing, West bids one Diamond, which North doubles, hoping for a Major response. East, passing, South bids one Heart, which North doubles. South should then show better than a forced bid by bidding four Hearts for game.

Play: West opens the Diamond K upon which his partner plays the encouraging 7. West continues with the Diamond 10 and East wins with the Ace. Declarer trumps with the third round of Diamonds. In the heart 5-1 in Dummy.

Dr. Bisch Writes on Diabetes and Insulin

By Louis E. Bisch, M.D., Ph.D.,
Yenous Authority on Health and Psychology

It is true that a very wonderful discovery has been made by Dr. Baugher in relation to diabetes. This discovery is insulin, a product of one of the endocrine glands, by which the general well-being of the diabetic patient may be preserved and his life prolonged. It is not true, however, that insulin cures diabetes! If you stop to study the matter for a moment you will readily understand why insulin cannot be a cure.

The problem in diabetes has always been the problem of the carbohydrates, the starches and sugars, especially the question of the sugar. Science did not know exactly all the ways in which the carbohydrates are disposed of in the body.

It was known for some time, however, that in diabetes sugar accumulates in the blood, some of which is passed out in the urine. It was also known that in cases of diabetes the pancreas was inflamed to some degree, disordered to some degree.

It remained for Dr. Baugher to discover that certain parts of the pancreas secrete a chemical substance which took care of the sugar of the body, using it up for purposes of vital energy, and, therefore, he reasoned that if this substance was isolated from the pancreas glands of animals and given to diabetic sufferers they would be receiving from outside sources what their own body was deficient in.

Says Many Funerals Are Foolishly Costly

By WINIFRED BLACK

HE died the other day—the husband of a woman dead—loved and loved by all who knew him. He was a man of home, friendly and alone.

Rather a difficult sort of person, they say, high-tempered, inconsistent, not always the best-natured man in the world to have in the house. But loving, loving, devoted, intelligent, devoted.

Only he couldn't make money—he just couldn't make it, that's all. The wife had to go to work to keep body and soul together, and the man started West to find a fortune—again.

THE other day he died in a cheap rooming house in San Francisco. They found him lying across his bed, with a clipping of a newspaper in his hand about some men who were going to make a fortune in Mexico, man who started on the clipping called a "hoaxing."

Under the man's pillow there was a photograph of his wife, rather a hard-faced woman with intelligent eyes and a most unsympathetic mouth.

They telegraphed to the wife and she sent the money for the husband's body. When it came back to the little town where the lived she took the last penny she had in the bank and bought a lot in the graveyard.

She provided a decent funeral flowers, a sermon, music and everything. Now she is putting up a stone, sacred to the memory of the man who was always trying to "make a fortune" and who never could quite make a plan living.

It was rather hard for her to spend all that money in that way, because her eyes have been troubling her late and she had been saving the money for an operation. The doctors say she will go blind if she does not have the operation.

Are You Ready

all. Of course, I had to do my duty by my husband. I never loved him, no, not even on the day I married him. I can see what a strange thing life is, and the strangest thing life is, is the people who live it. Have you ever noticed that?

Household Hints

A card index is a very systematic way of keeping recipes that are taken from magazines. They can be indexed as entered on a special index card and there is never the trouble of looking them up. An index is not really necessary if they are filed alphabetically.

A shoe stretcher for use at home can be purchased and will pay for itself many times over in the convenience in using.

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All you can do cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can soothe what your experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—love a few drops of plain Calumet. No sooner does that baby lie soothed; relief is just a matter of time. You have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug. Calumet is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any stomach trouble. So it's safe to use it always ready for the cruelest pains of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea, effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

William Haines—The reproduction of the picture is especially to the credit of Director James Cruze, that he hasn't strained at a gnat, but has taken advantage of the opportunity which may happen in any co-educational institution.

William Haines is the Duke, and Joan Crawford is the girl in the case. He puts a young quality into his character that is delightful, so that his weakness as a student is used in the light of the naturalness of his acting in Nia. Caprice claims that leads him to enter college and to get a girlfriend. "There is less stangeness about him than there is about Nia Crawford," says the Chicago Tribune. "The story of the girl who is married to a strikingly dramatic actor in the picture is by no means as convincing as the story of the girl who is married to a radio to link the girl back in the security dance hall, up with the class." Los Angeles Times critic Karl Dane and Tennen Holtz are also impressed with Caprice's performance. "The picture," says Goldenwey-Mayer, "picture bubbles with the spirit of youth."

Action on Boston School Needs Imperative

More than a month has passed since the legislative committee on cities took under consideration, following a series of public hearings, a bill designed to change the system under which Boston schoolhouses have been constructed, altered and repaired since 1901.

During that period, it is safe to assume, the committee has weighed the deplorable picture of existing conditions against the sound remedy suggested by the Survey Committee of the Boston Public Schools.

It soon should be ready to report favorably upon the measure abolishing the present board of schoolhouse commissioners and creating, in its stead, a board of commissioners of school buildings, and a department of school buildings in charge of a superintendent of construction.

Is it conceivable that the committee will go on record other than in favoring the bill?

The Survey Committee, composed of nine representative citizens who carry no axes to be ground, has completed one phase of its investigation into the Boston public school system and found:

"That there have been both delay and waste in the construction and repair of school buildings."

Two examples of delay cited by the Survey Committee are of particular interest to the parents of 8000 children now pursuing their education in 207 portable schools in Boston. The Survey Committee says:

"There has been great delay . . . NOT caused by inadequate financial provisions . . . It has taken as long as two years to construct a high school building and four years to construct an eight-room elementary building."

The Survey Committee discovers that during the past three years the present schoolhouse commission made no published report of its activities. Yet the schoolhouse commission spends, each year, four or five million dollars of taxpayers' money.

The city charter requires competition in contracts for more than $1000 in the aggregate of various items of a similar character. Certified public accountants employed by the Survey Committee conducted a general examination of the schoolhouse commission's work and made the following astounding discovery:

"In the period February 1, 1925, to September 30, 1928, $5,601,599.93 was expended for alterations and repairs. Of this cost sum only 18 per cent was spent as a result of competitive bidding, while 82 per cent, amounting to $4,555,800.30, WAS AWARDED TO CONTRACTORS WITHOUT COMPETITION."

A substantial amount of the money expended for repairs and alterations has been used "without sufficient regard for the city's interests," the Survey Committee finds. That is, indeed, putting it lightly.

And . . . "So long as the present system prevails waste and delay will continue," reports this same committee, whose chairman is Judge Michael H. Sullivan, and whose members are President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard, Francis B. Bangs of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, Walter F. Downey, headmaster of Boston English School; Curt Dreyfus, representing the Boston Chamber of Commerce; Frank P. Fenion of the Boston Central Labor Union; Arthur L. Gould of the board of superintendents, Boston Public Schools; Arthur M. Nickerson, master of Frank V. Thompson Intermediate School, and Mrs. Willard D. Woodbury of the Boston Home and School Association.

The Boston Evening American cannot conceive of a more representative, more competent or more reputable committee than the above named. Its recommendations, as embodied in House Bill 1103, are wholly free of bias and political influence.

The bill provides for a commission of three unpaid members, one each to be appointed by the mayor, the governor and the school committee, and for a department of school buildings under supervision of a superintendent of construction TO BE ELECTED BY THE THREE UNPAID MEMBERS OF THE COMMISSION.

The purposes of this bill are outlined briefly by the Survey Committee as follows:

"1. To place the official who is to construct schoolhouses in Boston as far as possible from the political pressure exerted upon elected officials."

"2. To enable the official who is to build schoolhouses in Boston to continue in office as long and only as long as his efficiency warrants, to the end that an effective building policy may be established and continued without interruption."

"3. To provide for a removal, removed as far as possible from the political pressure exerted upon elected officials, which will co-ordinate the work of the appropriating body and of the building officials and which will serve to dissolve deadlocks and differences that are born of the rivalry between two agencies with separate responsibilities are concerned with the same work."

The Boston Evening American believes the bill in its original form to be sound on the basis of the Survey Committee's disclosures.

We believe also that any attempt, in or out of committee, to alter its provisions would defeat temporarily—a change in system that must be made if Boston schoolhouse conditions, now shameful, are to be remedied.

As educational facilities are bettered, so is the entire system of education improved. As education advances, so advances the nation.

And the very foundation of the nation is menaced when delay and waste and questionable policies creep into the establishment of educational facilities. Eradication of the menace by the medium of healthy, constructive legislation is an immediate necessity.

The decision whether or not to approve the bill remains for the time being with a group of legislators. But it is one in which every man, woman and child demands a voice. The Survey Committee of the Boston Public Schools finds the system of schoolhouse construction to be wrong. Change the system!

The Survey Committee, at the conclusion of an exhaustive study of causes and effects, makes recommendations as to the manner in which the system should be changed.

Change the system accordingly!

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND
OYE is on the wane, when you discover that you prefer a full night's sleep to a few extra kisses under the spring moon.

Holding onto a dollar, holding on to a lover, and holding onto a servant have come to be the three Herculean struggles of a woman's life.

Before marriage a man may be as punctual as the office clock, but after marriage he seems to run his life according to the vagaries of a temperamental wife's watch.

This bare-legged fad is going to a shock to many a man who has gotten so accustomed to looking at an expanse of smooth, delicate skin knees that he imagines the Lord made women that way.

Thoughts are things—and sometimes they always makes a man more docile and manageable to call him "Yamb."

When a husband slides from the straight and narrow path, it is usually on the appliance some woman has thrown in his way. No man ever hunts up another woman, just in order to have two of them telling him the bitter truth about himself.

Sometimes bliss is so becoming to a woman that her mourning veil looks more like a gesture of courtesy or a symbol of hope than the emblem of grief.

A woman can go right on loving a man, no matter how much or how long he hurts her heart; but the moment he offends her imagination, her vanity or her illusions he is out of the picture.

One reason why the course of love never runs smooth, these days is because, after the first few kisses, the man always begins looking around for a date.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE LITTLE GRAVEYARD is very still in the twilight.

It is a long time since anyone was buried there and many of the tombstones have fallen down. Moss has grown in the chiseled words and there is a litter of weeds along the gravelled paths.

The sun falls in pale, slanting rays through the old cypress trees. The shadows widen in warm pools in the deep grass. A bird chirps sleepily and then is still.

It is restful in the little graveyard. People wept there, once—wept as their lives were torn apart. But there are no tears now. Only the quietness of a task that is done.

"Near the little graveyard there is a schoolhouse."

I peered in through the dusty windows yesterday, and smiled as memories came back to me.

The nicked, carved desks, the battered boards where so many lessons were chalked up by fumbling young hands.

The litter of paper along the worn sills—Papers that seemed so important at the time but now are rubbish.

What a tumult of warm, giggling life there was in that schoolroom a little while ago.

What dreams were dreamed.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

On the infinite seas of night,
With a flurry of snowflakes veiling
For a moment its silver light,
Does it see in the vast world
Whirling
A comet the Earth it loved,
With the petals of roses curling
Niphae like feet of snows curling

Can it be that the moon remembering
The glow of the world in spring
And that of the year's dim end
It can conjure the robin's wing
Can it be that this pallid yearning
Of the wistful winter moon
Will be known to the sea, returning
And will quicken her pulse, in June?

Man Dark Day by Day O. O. MINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 7.—Foreign visitors invariably pronounce that turbulent section around Brooklyn Bridge one of the most interesting in the city. There is the old world charm about such buildings as the City Hall, the medley of street cries and the panorama of distinct types.

The Bridge is one of the few spots left where newsies sold outdoors with a lusty-lunged vigor. Shaven old women with baskets of pretzels apiked on sticks as well as the black-aproned Apple Marys making the rounds of the skyscrapers with their fruit carry-on.

Lining the sidewalks are rows of high chairs where those bootblacks suggesting the up-from-nowhere Ragged Dick have performed their effluient miracles. A street faker or a soap box pulpit like some clouds of gawp wisdom can collect a crowd in a jiffy by his mere wave of an arm.

Even the crossing cops suggest round rattles of the old days instead of the collegiate types up there. There are peanut vendors, but shrunken kettles, like some dieters, map sellers as well as those salesmen of the dancing floors that leap to hidden threads.

The benches dotted around the park are cluttered with seamy oddities who have sought refuge from the Bowery. Now and then a loaded yag wagon stops for the neighborhood to point quickly to an imaginary Mayor Walker or Police Commissioner Wheeler.

In some of the cobblestoned streets the madame and her three dingy sour-mellows havens which suggest the earthly drives once featured in the madame's thrillers "Brooklyn Bridge After Dark." One may even see a venerable and cackling hawk hobnobbing about.

There is also the "delightful" rumble from under the Bridge—the street cars, trucks, subway, street yells and various other cacophony echoing from beneath the massive structure. While the rest of the city is in a daze, there is a daze, there is always a busy boat under the Bridge.

Broadway antiquarians like to recall the splendor of yesterday. There was the fancy week-end of the "Brooklyn Bridge" and the reputed scattering $100 a night brightening up life in the cafes. Today there are no outstanding spenders but waiters spend more

The BAER Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
If the reparations press permits the peace clique to scrap the terms of the world, then the wires are crossed on the spark-plugs of sentiment.

The most beautiful sight in the world is a navy steaming out to sea to battle the appropriations committee.

And the next most inspiring sight is a nighty nighty dry-dock with the smoke pouring out of her kitchen stove and the lardcanes lighting her propeller.

As school children we used to recall, "Aye, aye, your lattered end."

It started that way. Then it rustered. But it saved the majestic Constitution when Congress was about to brook the nation on a monarch up into cuckoo clocks.

Don't sink the Navy. Do the pacifist expect us to see the world on bicycles?

Sailors are the romantic figures of the world. When a sailor tells a girl he loves her it's true until further notice.

Without a navy there would be no sailors. And without sailors the chop suey joints might as well go out of business.

If it must sink the navies of the world, let us compromise on a cross-word puzzle?

Have we reached that stage of efficiency in production and efficiency can plunge into history with all the originality of a

Boston American's Policies For Boston-New England

FOR BOSTON:

- 1.—Clean streets.
- 2.—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
- 3.—Better pay for honest public service.
- 4.—An airport (SEA) on the water.
- 5.—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston properly supply its first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

FOR NEW ENGLAND:

- 1.—Wield the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
- 2.—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "go to the sea" again.
- 3.—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the world all about the unique advantages as Summer and Winter playground of the Nation.
- 4.—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
- 5.—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
- 6.—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.
